

SEARCH AND DESTROY

A HIGH-STAKES MISSION WITH SBS VETERAN
CHRIS OLIVER

Ever wondered how you'd fare in the toughest military endurance challenges? This is your chance to find out, without the cameras, but with all the grit. Led by Chris Oliver; former Special Boat Service (SBS) operative, Royal Marine Mountain Leader, and Directing Staff on SAS: Who Dares Wins. This is no staged challenge, it's Search and Destroy, an immersive, story-led survival experience that demands your full resilience, determination, and strategic thinking.

The Mission

A rogue faction has planted an explosive device at Conistonia's Hydro Station. If detonated, the town's infrastructure will be obliterated. Intelligence has intercepted crucial codes scattered across the landscape, but retrieval won't be easy. You and your team must navigate treacherous terrain, recover the codes, and neutralise the threat before disaster strikes.

Your Two-Day Operation

Phase 1: Scramble up sheer rock faces to recover the first intel.

Phase 2: Abseil 120ft into a quarry, extracting through a water-filled tunnel.

Phase 3: Enter a labyrinth of mining tunnels via a Tyrolean traverse.

Phase 4: Encounter a downed ally—construct a rope stretcher and evacuate them to safety.

Phase 5: Navigate under darkness to a secure camp, where you'll debrief with Chris Oliver over an evening meal.

Phase 6: Execute the final approach, neutralise the explosive device, and exfiltrate through canyon descents, waterfall jumps, and river scrambling.
